

LIGHTHOUSES

This book offers a captivating visual journey through the world of lighthouses. Towering sentinels of our waterways and oceans that have guided sailors through treacherous conditions for centuries. From the rugged cliffs of Scotland to the serene shores of the Mediterranean, these guardians of the sea, stand as symbols of safety, hope, and the enduring battle against nature's might.

Scott Benjamin Gracie

This collection of images presents many different types of lighthouses from around the world. Some are beautiful, or in amazing locations, and some extraordinarily remote. Some are painted different colours, while others are bare and showing their natural materials. But all have one singular purpose of protecting seafarers from danger by guiding them along a safe path, using the wonder of light.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Scott's passion for light and the electromagnetic spectrum began in his early teens while tinkering with electronics as a hobby. After finishing secondary schooling at Randwick North High School in Sydney Australia, Scott was formally introduced to the lighting industry while studying Electrical and Electronics. Then in 1998 he started his career making custom light fittings and lamps in his dad's garage. Formal lighting-design qualifications expanded his opportunity to help project-manage and design on many industry levels.

Scott is a member of the Illuminating Engineering Society of Australia & New Zealand, the Colour Society of Australia, the International Dark Sky Association, the Astronomical Society of the Pacific and the Australian division of the International Commission on Illumination CIE. Physical
